

Belgium WWII, the story continues!

Almost one year ago, on 27 September 2017, we launched the website "Belgium WWII". The aim was to make the works and research of the most renowned experts accessible to the general public in a clear and concise manner. The purpose was not to propose an official version of history, but to provide information with a quality label substantiated by the academic credit of the Study Centre War and Society and the thorough evaluation of the texts.

Belgium WWII: a virtual platform on Belgium and its inhabitants during the Second World War

The platform Belgium WWII has been online since 27 September! (www.belgiumwwii.be)

À

At a time when information is often anything but reliable, and the Internet is frequently addressed to find quick answers, this new platform represents an interactive tool for those who wish to dispose of concise and correct historical information on various themes related to the Second World War in Belgium.

À

Belgium WWII