

Paul De Jongh (born in Deurne in 1959; residing in Vosselaar near Turnhout) is a jurist and head of a publishing house specialised in academic works. Since 2013 he studies resistance movements (espionage and escape routes) in the border region of Herve (Val-Dieu)-Voeren-Eijsden (NL), infiltration (Hannibal Belgium), arrests, judicial procedures and executions (Utrecht/Rhijnauwen), with special interest in the role of the abbey Val-Dieu and its monks Jacobs an Muhren.