

Sabine Bordon

Sabine Bordon is translator and handwriting reeducator. Granddaughter and great-granddaughter of resisters, she has been unburying the story of her family. What she has found so far has opened up the doors of the archives for her. She is particularly interested in the memory of the Second World war, and has written a historical fiction book entitled Sheikh mat, le roi est pris.